In Tur-r-rns

Thursday evening two local rinks went to foulball to play some friendly games with the Didsfall Club. First games were played at which the participants were: H. Freeman skip, A. Campbell, A. Gay and W. Dwyer lost two games, one to Watt and one to Lear. Ryan skip, J. Reed, F. Omond and A. McNaughton lost to Calder and won from Ingham in two very close games. The visiting rinks were invited to lunch in the Mascoe hotel, and were given a fine well come.

Two of the lastfall rinks from the Women's Club visited here Thursday afternoon and were hosted four games by local ladies. Obviously the Didsbury women are some cutters.

Didsbury cutters came night-cloze to getting the Mitchell Cup from Olds on Tuesday night when the rivals were forced to go extra ends when they finished their regular five ends with the count tied, 29-29. Out the odd ends skip Samia won three from Ingham and Hinton won one from Freeman making the total score for the evening, Olds 33, Dids, 39.

SEED GRAIN SUPPLY

There is sufficient wheat and oats in the province to supply the demand for seed grain, according to a statement given by the Department of Agriculture, Hon. Geo. Hoadley, Minister of Agriculture, in a statement issued to the newspapers this evening. His statement is as follows: On Friday last, Mr. Geo. Hoadley, Minister of Agriculture, at my request, went to Calgary and interviewed the Calgary Cereals Exchange. At this meeting, most of the grain companies and commission men were represented. He took up with them the matter of supply of seed grain for farmers and was advised that in their opinion the various companies had sufficient wheat and oats to satisfy the probable demand. It developed that a number of these companies were getting anxious about their stocks, a very few seed orders are coming in, and they feel that unless orders are placed at an early date, they will be compelled to call in the mills as well as the grain of the province. It was stated that some local organizations, principally the U. P. A. and Minster Council, should undertake to consolidate the orders of farmers at local points and order from the companies in carload lots, thus saving the loss then carload rates on small lots. Mr. Hoadley was also informed that all of the grain companies in the province have some seed for sale, a considerable amount of which is in the local elevators throughout the province.

He was also advised that it was their belief in certain districts, the farmers were still of the opinion that some measure of relief in regard to seed grain will be extended by the government, and are consequently waiting to see what will be done. The Department finds that the above statement is substantially correct in all parts of the province. The intention of the Department under these conditions is to create, among all U. P. A. Local, Municipal Councils and other organized bodies in the rural parts of the province, a feeling that as to available supplies of seed grain, and suggesting the co-operative of people in different parts to secure carload lots, at the same time informing them that the government will not guarantee or take any part in the financing or the securing of seed grain, as announced by the premier some time ago.

TURN TO THE RIGHT

IN THE LEGISLATURE

The budget of the government is being introduced on Tuesday of the coming week by Hon. Mr. Greenfield, the premier. The estimates will be ready for consideration by that time, the premier has announced.

The report of the special committee on the legality of the petition asking for sale of beer in the province, was accepted by the legislature on a division of 19 to 7. The committee reported that the petition conformed with the terms of the direct legislation act.

Mr. Greenfield has a resolution on the order paper urging that the provincial and federal governments co-operate to negotiate with the transcontinental railways for a freight rate that will place Alberta on an even basis with the Ontario market in competition with American coal.

An act has been introduced by Hon. Mr. Brownlee to facilitate the borrowing of money by farmers for seed grain purposes. Under this act, money loaned by a mortgagee for seed grain in respect of land they already hold mortgages upon will form part of the debt secured by the original mortgage.

A bill amending the election act has been introduced by Mr. Davidson, member for Calgary. This provision amended poll tax in the province three days previous to the regular election day, for the convenience of travelers and others who are compelled to be absent election day.

Other acts which have been introduced lately were to amend the school act, by Mr. Bailey, one to amend the insanity act, by Mr. Field, one respecting private bird sanctuaries, by Mr. Smith of Red Deer, one to amend the bills of sale act, by Mr. Brownlee, and one to amend the farmers' pension act, by Mr. Brownlee.

CHAPTER VII

The Old Trail

For another mile Wade followed the main road and then diverged sharply to the left into what was known as the old, or upper, trail. This had formerly been the valley road until made dangerous by a wash out a year or two previous. In the following spring the washout had been partially repaired, but the going was still so rough that the new road was widened and had been used by persistence ever since. The old trail, however, was nearly four miles the shorter of the two, and was still traveled in cases of emergency, although to do so at present and in the dark was hazardous.

Wade's promise to Dorothy to take good care of himself had been made with mental reservation, for, obsessed by his anxiety over Santry, the young ranchman was in no mood to spare either himself or his horse. His going was marked by a constant show of nerves, sometimes behind him, as the wary cougar climbed like a mountain goat; but as often in front, as fence and rider reacted nervously down some declivity. The horse sweated and trembled with nervousness, as a frightened child might, but never paused to attempt what his master demanded of it. One might almost say that there existed a human understanding between man and beast as to the importance of their errand; a common pulse, which urged them onward.

When Wade reflected that Dorothy, too, had come over that trail by night in his interest, he thought her more than ever a wonderful girl. Even to one born and raised in the cattle country, the trip would have been difficult; but then he realized that Dorothy seemed much like a ranch hand girl in her courage and frank womanliness, nor was she any less charming on that account. After all, he thought, women paid too highly for little accomplishments, if to gain them they had to sacrifice the vital points of character. He could not help but contrast Helen's insistence that she should be escorted back to the hotel with Dorothy's brave ride alone, and while he was too loyal to Helen Rex, still to blame her in this respect, the thing made a deep impression upon him.

The way was long, and he had time for many thoughts. He was, naturally, in the still night, with Dorothy only a little while gone, that he should think tenderly of her, for this was Santry's last night. For Santry, Wade was reserving not thought but action. He was making up his mind that if Moran had taken the horseback into custody on a trumped up charge of murder, the agent should feel the power of a greater tribunal than any court in the locality—the law of the Strong Arm! Behind him in this, he remembered, was the whole of the cattle country, and since was still been thrust upon them he would not stop until the end came, whether it might be. His conscience was clean, for he had excited himself manfully in the cause of justice, even to the point where his own character had suffered, and now the hour of reprisal was at hand.

"I Was Terribly Weak After Baby Was Born"

Mrs. H. McClure, Norwood, Ont., writes:

DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD

He rode, at last, over the top of the Divide and into the little draw that led up to the ranch buildings, in the shadows of which lights gleamed. With an impression at sight of them, he tied his horse to a post, and, revolver in hand, crept toward the house as quietly as a snail.

Except for the light, there was no sign of life about the place, and Wade cautiously advanced into the deeper shadows, close to the wall of the house. Taking off his hat, so that the crown might not betray him, he peeped through a window. What he saw made him clench his fingers and set his teeth in rage.

Inside were half a dozen men, besides three or four men, each hand was busy as if they were in one corner of the room; doubtless they had been surprised by the posse he led, and now they had opportunity to run or put up a fight. Moran was there, stretched comfortably on Wade's own cot, smoking a cigar. Once, he looked directly toward the window at which the watcher had placed himself; but the latter did not move. Instead he fingered his gun and waited; he was not sure that he really wanted to avoid detection; if it came, Moran would pay, and he rest, at the moment, did not seem to matter. He had forgotten Dorothy entirely.

But Santry was not there and this fact irritated Wade. The Sheriff was not there either, and presently it occurred to the cattleman that a part of the posse, with Santry, might have returned in Crawling Water over the main trail. Probably Moran, with the rest, was waiting for him. The mere thought of Santry already on his way to jail filled Wade with a baffling sense of rage, and creeping from the house, he examined the surrounding turf by the faint rays of the moon. It was badly cut up by the feet of many horses, and several minutes passed before Wade was really sure that a number of mounted men had taken the trail back to town. Satisfied of this at length, he untied his horse and swung into the saddle.

Before riding away he considered the advisability of driving off the horses belonging to Moran's party, but there would still be others in the corral, and besides their absence, when discovered, would give warning of the impending attack. On second thought, however, he quietly made his way to the corral and caught a fresh horse or two. When he had saddled it he set out over the old trail for the big place.

When he reached the rendezvous his men were not there; but knowing that he must meet them if he followed the road from there on he did not stop. He came upon them in a few minutes, riding toward him at full speed, with Tim Sullivan in the van, too drunk to stand erect, but able to balance himself on a horse's back, drunk or sober.

"We came across Santry and the Sheriff's wife back," explained Big Bob Lawson, one of Wade's own punchers. "They must be in town by now. We was a'might to light into 'em, but Santry wouldn't hear of it. Course, we took our orders from him same as usual. He said to tell you that you wanted to keep quiet, an' that's what he aimed to do."

"He said we wasn't to tell you that he didn't about them Swedes," put in another of the men.

"What?" Wade demanded sharply. "He said—hic!" broke in Tim Sullivan, with drunken gravity. "He said—hic—that if you didn't know that without—hic—he'd—hic—, you wasn't no friend of his, 'n'—hic—, you could go to hell."

"Shut up, you drunken fool!" Lawson snapped out.

"Jensen and his hender were shot in the back, they say. That clears Santry," Wade declared, and sat for some moments in deep thought, while the men waited as patiently as they could. "Lawson," he said, at last, "you're in charge for the present. Take the boys to the big place and camp there quietly until I come back. I'm going into town."

"Hedn't you better take us with you, boss? We'll stick. We're for you an' Bill Santry an' a'might these—sheepherders, wherever you say the word."

"That's—hic—what we are!" Sullivan hiccupped.

Wade shook his head.

POPULAR GIRL IS
PRAISING TANLAC

Miss Ions Declares It Completely Overcame Indigestion, Restoring Lost Weight and Full Strength

"I now have a statement for my medicine in me. For, and Tanlac helped me so much I think it is only right I should tell about it," declared Miss Margaret Ions, 110 111th St., N.W., Calgary, Alberta. Miss Ions arrived overseas in the war and is a highly-respected and popular girl.

"I was in a badly run-down condition for a year," she said. "I fell on fifteen pounds and felt tired and worn out all the time. My appetite left me, the little I did manage to eat didn't seem to do me a bit of good, and I suffered terribly from indigestion. My nerves were all astray. I could get no restful sleep, and I really don't believe I ever saw a well day."

"But two bottles of Tanlac changed things completely. I began to pick up at once, have gained five pounds, and never felt better. My nerves are steady, I sleep soundly, and my indigestion is gone. It is a pleasure to recommend Tanlac."

Tanlac is for sale by all good drug stores.

ALBERTA CATTLE FOR BRITAIN

A trainload of steers will be sent to the British market immediately the embargo is removed stated Hon. Geo. Hoadley, Minister of Agriculture, in a statement issued during the past week to the newspapers. The statement is as follows:

"In pursuit of the policy announced by the government some time ago that the question of marketing of all farm products would be one of the principle policies in the future, the department of agriculture purposes to ship a trainload of steers to the old country immediately the regulations covering the removal of the embargo become operative, that is, on the first of April.

"Approximately 242 head of steers are being fed at the various farms and institutions of the government in the province. From these will be selected all the animals that are fit for the British market. We will endeavor to get stockmen in the province who are feeding large bunches of steers to send a sufficiently additional quantity to make up the train load.

"The purpose of the department is to ship this trainload of steers on a co-operative basis under conditions exactly similar to those which can and unquestionably will be followed by other people. We consider this initial trainload of cattle will assist in settling the type, cost, regulations, etc., which will have to be met by those who wish to avail themselves of this market in the future, as well as illustrating the possibilities of this system of marketing."

THE WINTER CARNIVAL AT BANFF

1. Strongheart, owner of the Grand Station. 2. Skating party, Banff Springs Hotel. 3. With his trainer and W. W. Grant at the Alberian Broadcasting Hotel. 4. Again.

The beautiful mountain town of Banff has become the hub of winter sports, and its claim as one of Canada's finest playgrounds in winter or summer is admitted. The Canadian winter begins there ordinarily about the middle of November, and from that time until the end of March, curling, skating, tobogganing, swimming in the hot sulphur pools and a host of other sports fill the days, and dancing, cards and music help to pass the evenings.

The Banff Winter Carnival this year was the best on record. It was attended by a larger crowd than ever before, and the attendance was more than justified by the programme which opened on February 24th and closed March 5th. The ten days were crisscrossed with sporting competition events. The ladies' hockey championship and the ski-jumping contests were perhaps the most popular and spectacular features open to all, but there were very few visitors who did not enter one or more of the other lists.

On Saturday, March 3rd, a hundred mile team dog race was held on Lake Minnewanka, at Banff, Alta., the first long distance dog race in which all the contestants were in full view of the spectators the whole time. Among the contestants were seven famous dog teams from The Pas and the excitement they provided compensated for many a long journey. This part of the programme was supported by the Trimble-Murfin Motion Picture Production Company, which is at present located at Banff for the filming of Jack London's "White Fang." Strongheart, "the wonder dog of the movies," which is taking the leading part in the picturization, donated the trophy in the Grand Prix race, and from the W. W. Grant broadcasting station at Calgary challenged all dogmen and invited all Canada and the United States to attend the dog classic of all time at Banff.

Special arrangements were made with the Canadian Pacific Railway for the transportation of Strongheart and his party which consisted of Miss Lillian Rich, Mrs. J. I. Brewster, Mr. J. I. Brewster, president of the Banff Carnival Association, and Mr. Lawrence Trimble, the dog's trainer. Strongheart travelled in the Pullman car and was received at Calgary by Colonel G. R. Pearkes, V.C., at whose invitation he had undertaken the journey. After being introduced to a large number of boy scouts gathered to meet him, Strongheart was taken to the broadcasting station where, after introduction by his trainer, he barked his message to the world.

Strongheart, the central figure in the splendid collection of dogs that were gathered for the race, was once a German police dog and towards the end of the war he saw considerable Red Cross service. Three years ago he was brought to this country and was purchased by Jane Murfin, the playwright who wrote "Lilac Time" in collaboration with Jack Cowly, the actress. Miss Murfin and Mr. Trimble are the producers of the picture plays in which Strongheart is the star. Just as a dog he is worth close to fifteen thousand dollars; but as a dog actor he is almost beyond price. He is not a trick dog, he is just under the absolute control of his trainer.

In the training of his charge Mr. Trimble applies to the dog the psychology of the human, and he believes in treating dog as you would treat a man. He watched how Strongheart reacted to every stimulus—sounds, sights and smells, and worked with him accordingly. He made him change the habits formed in police and Red Cross work, but he did not attempt to try and change the dog's impulses. The actor dog's actions are guided by what he recognizes as the supreme authority and he does anything that he is told because his master is right or wrong, but he does not betray his trust in him. His dog nature has just been understood, and that is why he has become a movie star of the first magnitude.

Harness Repairing Boots and Shoes

Once more we are on the edge of Spring with all its rush of work ahead, harness and implements need looking over and fixing up. It is sound economy of time and money to have your harness oiled and repaired, a dry hard strap is easily broken. I have a very complete which does splendid work. Your harness is taken apart and THOROUGHLY SCRUBBED free from sweat and dirt so that the oil may penetrate freely into the leather, every strap loop and part is thoroughly gone over. The charge for this work is so moderate and the added value to the harness is so great, that it is poor economy not to have it done.

Bring Yours at Once before the Rush Starts

ARMY MUNSON LAST which gives the greatest possible comfort and foot ease. Other lines in old tan and chrome grain leathers which are unbeatable for wear and real comfort.

Redistribution Bill Will Be Considered By Special Committee

Ottawa.—Referring to the redistribution bill, Premier King said in the House that the Government was of the opinion that the work of the special committee to be appointed to consider the bill would be done before the committee was a small one. It appeared to the Government that a committee composed of 11 members would be about the right size to deal with the matters involved in the redistribution bill without being unwieldy. However, as members of the Opposition considered this too small, the Government had decided to concede a committee of 15 members on which each of the different groups in the House would have representation. A bill to amend the Canadian Copyright Act was introduced in the House of Commons by Hon. J. A. Robt, Minister of Trade and Commerce. Mr. Robt explained that the existing Copyright Act, which was passed in 1921, had never been proclaimed, and had never come into effect. The purpose of the present bill was to make some minor amendments to the act to bring it into harmony with the British copyright law, and with the international copyright convention.

Hon. Charles Stewart, Minister of Immigration, announced in the House that he proposed to bring down a bill in respect to Chinese immigration. Features of the bill would be a system of registration and finger prints.

CANADA MAY HAVE ENVOY AT WASHINGTON

COULD THEN BECOME MEMBER OF PAN-AMERICAN UNION

Montreal.—There is only one obstacle to Canada's being invited to membership in the Pan-American Union, according to John Barrett, general counsel and advisor of the union, and that is that Canada has no ambassador plenipotentiary at Washington. The constitution governing bodies shall consist of ministers of each member nation functioning at the American capital. When he pointed this out to the Prime Minister, Mr. Barrett said in an interview, Mr. Mackenzie King "indicated that this obstacle would be wiped out in future" fore shadowing, according to Mr. Barrett, the establishment of a Canadian ambassador at Washington. The Pan-American Union comprises 21 member nations and is an official organization devoted to the development of commerce, friendship and intercourse among the peoples on this continent.

Quest Purchased By Canadian Explorer

Captain Bernier Makes Arrangements to Buy Shackleton's Ship

Quebec.—Canada is to enter once more into Arctic expeditions. Capt. Bernier, the Canadian explorer, who has returned from Europe, appears to have made the necessary arrangements to buy the quest, Shackleton's Antarctic ship.

Capt. Bernier, according to information, was recalled from England by the Department of the Interior to give details regarding the deal which is now projected. Capt. Bernier will leave early this spring for Europe to bring the purchased ship across the Atlantic to Quebec.

From here an expedition will be organized in the beginning of June. It is said that mineral resources will be investigated.

Proposal to Have Nations Control Ruhr

Internationalization Is Urged By British Labor Mission

London.—Four Scottish Labor members of the House of Commons, John Whistley, James Maxton, David Kirkwood and the Rev. Campbell Stephen, who recently made a flying visit to the Ruhr, presented a report of their impressions to their colleagues.

U. S. Secret Service Has Unearthed Great Counterfeiting Scheme

New York.—United States secret service operatives have rounded up alleged counterfeiters involved in a plot of international scope, whereby between $1,000,000 and $10,000,000 in spurious money has been dumped into the trading marts of a score of nations.

A nationwide hunt is being carried on. It was discovered, for the capture of 1,000 members of a gang that maintained its headquarters in a basement in the Italian quarter of New York.

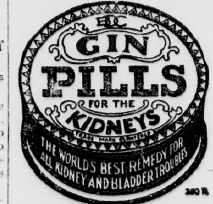

Government operatives in Detroit, Chicago, San Francisco and other large cities, with the details of the elaborate plot at their finger tips, are prepared to raid counterfeiters' dens in the foreign quarters of their cities, Police of South and Central America and Western European nations have been informed of the hunt by foreign agents of the plain crime ring.

The plot was hatched after the capture of three men alleged by the authorities to be the leaders of an organization of international ramifications, and the discovery of the printing presses which turned out hundreds of thousands of United States $2, $5, $10 and $20 bills. United States gold pieces, Austrian kronen, Italian lire, internal revenue stamps and certificates, postage stamps, watermarked prohibition papers, whiskey and champagne bottle labels, and bonus drug and liquor permits.

Joseph A. Palton, Chief of the Special Service Squad of the International Revenue Department, declared thousands of dollars' worth of bogus money found its way into foreign ports, especially Cuba and the West Indies, through members of the local crews in the rum fleet.

The headquarters and manufacturing plant of the gang, Palton reported, was in a basement at 29 Cornelia Street, in the heart of Greenwich Village. There were seven wholesale distributing agencies in New York City and surrounding territory, the principal one in Rine Street, a store's throw from police headquarters.

Spend your money at home, then by helping your own town and local merchants.
